

VIVIANI CALLS U. S. MORAL HELP VITAL

Asks No Material Aid, Nor Remission of Debts, He Assures Officials

SEES CABINET MEN TODAY

Washington, April 1.—Rene Viviani, envoy extraordinary from the French republic, who has suggested that extension of this country's "moral support" was vitally necessary to assist France in settling the reparations question with Germany and other problems growing out of the war, planned to continue today his discussion of these problems with American officials.

Mr. Viviani's statement of the desire of France for American moral support only was fully outlined in advance in the dispatch yesterday of Clinton W. Gilbert, the EVANSTON PUBLIC LEADER's staff correspondent in Washington.

In addition to appointments with several members of the cabinet, including Secretaries Hoover and Mellon, the French envoy was to meet again today with Senator Lodge, chairman of the foreign relations committee, who was among those present at the dinner given in his honor last night by Ambassador Jusserand, at which Mr. Viviani was said to have discussed frankly the post-war problems confronting his country.

In reviewing the results of the London reparations conference, at which Germany refused to meet the demands of the Allies, the former French premier was said to have expressed the opinion that an ultimate satisfactory settlement of the reparations question depended largely on this country's moral backing. France, notwithstanding her present economic state, sought no material aid from this country, Mr. Viviani was said to have stated, but believed that the moral assistance of this country was essential to a just settlement of the problems affecting her relations with Germany.

DAIL EIRANN WILL CONTEST ELECTION

No Boycott of Polls, Says De Valera, Who Sidesteps Peace Talk

BLASTS IN BARRACKS RUIN

By the Associated Press
Dublin, April 1.—Eamon De Valera replying to a questionnaire in the Freeman's Journal yesterday, was vague concerning the question of peace in Ireland. But he stated definitely that the Dail Eirann has decided not to place a ban on the coming Irish election, but on the contrary would contest every constituency.

De Valera reiterated that Premier Lloyd George could have peace tomorrow if he desired it on the basis of right and justice.

"But," De Valera added, "we will never admit that England may dictate to us any alliance or partnership suit-her interests."

Search of the ruins of the Ross Carvery police barracks, which were destroyed yesterday morning during an attack by Sinn Feiners, is as yet incomplete.

Vancouver, B. C., April 1.—(By A. P.)—After being detained aboard the steamship Makura for four months under conditions which likened him to the principal character in the famous American story, "The Man Without a Country," O. T. Gratian Edmondson was permitted to land here yesterday. He is often referred to as the Sinn Fein envoy of Australia.

Edmondson agreed to return immediately to England. Through the refusal of Australian authorities to permit him to land, he was confined on the Makura nearly four months.

Local immigration officials said they had questioned his right to land here yesterday only because he had been refused admittance to Australia, where it is said, he refused to take the oath of allegiance required of English immigrants.

Will Pay Debts.
The former premier, it was said, is devoted to set at rest all reports that France intended to ask for any remission of its debt to the United States. In asserting that France would discharge all financial obligations to this country, he took occasion also, it was said, to set at rest any presumption that the official viewpoint of France was represented in any way in the recent contention in the French Parliament that a debt was due France by America in unpaid loans dating from the Revolutionary war.

While not desiring to present an alarmist view of the situation confronting ing the French republic, M. Viviani, it was said, pointed out in conversation with certain of those present at the dinner the depression under which the French people were laboring in the face of many unsolved problems affecting the relations of France with Germany.

M. Viviani was said to have pointed out the barrier which France offers to the westward spread of bolshevism, and in envisaging the possible renewal of a Bolshevik offensive this year, to have emphasized the hourly approval with which the recent reply of Secretary Hughes to the Russia Soviet Government's invitation to enter upon formal trade arrangements had been received in France.

No attempt was made by the former French premier, it was said, to enter into a discussion of the precise part the United States might take in future European affairs.

So far as was disclosed, the question of the withdrawal of American troops from the Rhine or the conclusion of a separate peace between the United States and Germany did not enter into the conversation.

Issues Greeting to U. S.
M. Viviani last night issued this statement to the American people:
"I have accepted the mission with which the government of my country has entrusted me with the mandate of bringing to President Harding the wishes which friendly France forms for him and for his administration. I could have the opportunity through you, to hail America, whole America."
"I came here, in other times, tragical and dark, which, however, shone for me with all the enthusiasm projected by the past."
"This enthusiasm gave me the comfort which is no necessary to continue the struggle."
"You may imagine the sacred emotion which I felt when returning amongst you. Let me express to you this emotion in my message."
"Never America, whole America, will know the gratitude of my country for her aid."
"From the Atlantic to the Pacific, from North to South, on this magnificent land where all races and confessions are splendidly and harmoniously mingled, our mind finds anew the generous soul and the valiant daughters to whom we owe so great a debt."
"Nothing will ever break the ties of the heart which unite to your republic France, France who has suffered so much for right, who asks only for justice, and who hopes for the salvation of humanity through a better world."
